GRAND JURORS CHARGE FIRST DEGREE MURDER IN DEATH OF JOHN KIDNEY; FIVE MEN HELD

Arraignment to Take Place Against Four Negroes, One White Man Monday Before Judge Adkins; Trial Will Be Early in February With 75 Special Jurors Called; Report at Noon Tuesday.

The wheels of justice started to roll in common pleas court Tuesday noon when indictments charging murder while in the act of perpetrating a burglary were returned against six men, five of whom are in the custody of local authorities. The sixth man, is still at large.

Seven indictments were returned by the grand jurors. Six were against the arrested men individually and the other, the seventh, was against the seven collectively.

SIX ARE CHARGED

The men who will face the charge which designates murder in the first degree and punishable by death are:

Henry Loudermilk, 47, white, charged by his fellow conspirators as the man who instigated the crime;

Walker Brown, 35, colored, who although charged as the murderer of John Kidney, has denied the charge;

Franklin Smith, 37, colored, who knew of the crime and distributed the money after the alleged robbery but who was not on the trip to Kidney's home;

John Hairston, 27, colored, who was the first to confess to his part in the murder;

Lacey Adams, 38, colored, an accomplice in the case and at whose home the robbery was planned;

Arthur Little, colored, who has not been apprehended.

Four confessions have been made, according to authorities, by Loudermilk, Smith, Hairston and Adams. Brown denies the allegations.

ARRAIGNED MONDAY

The men will be arraigned before Judge J. W. Adkins, Monday at which time details for the trial will be learned. According to Judge Adkins the men cannot be tried until Feb. 8 because of several cases he has scheduled in court. A special venire of not more than 75 prospective jurors will be summoned, according to Prosecuting Attorney Emmitt L. Crist.

Sixteen witnesses were called before the grand jury in the case, the last appearing at 11:25 a. m. It was only a moment after the 12 o'clock when the jury reported its finding, the foreman, Walter J. Dearth, handed the findings to Clerk of Courts Ferd M. Pickens.

COST $154.06

The cost of the grand jury and witnesses, as computed by Ferd M. Pickens, clerk of courts, was $154.06, $97.26 going to the 15 grand jurors and $56.20 to the 16 witnesses.

Grand jurors who returned their finding were:

Mrs. Anna Schelser, Madison-twp.; Mrs. Eva Friedman, fourth ward; Walter J. Dearth, second ward; Clyde Hoover, Harrison-twp.; Mrs. James Higgins, Darby-twp.; James Hatfield, Monroe-twp.; Mrs. Lizzie Leist, first ward; Jesse Rose, Deercreek-twp.; Fred Prushing, Scioto-twp.; Mary Neuding, second ward; John Dick, Darby-twp.; Joe Smith, Circleville-twp.; Mrs. Nellie Dunkle, Circleville-twp.; Mrs. Goldie Beckett, Scioto-twp.; and John Haynes, fourth ward.

MOONSHINE GANG DYNAMITE SHERIFF

PEARSON, Ga. Dec. 22.—Sheriff Lewis White and two deputies were in critical condition today after local moonshiners had used dynamite in fighting off the authorities.

Luring the sheriff's party into a swampy region near here by means of decoy letters, the moonshiners exploded five charges leaving the sheriff's face and arms mangled, deputy Perry Farmer with his right leg gone, and Deputy Wilbur O'Berry blinded in both eyes.

Deputy Ed White, the sheriff's son, escaped with slight injuries and Deputy Levi Corbett was unhurt.

PURCHASE GRAVEL

The county commissioners entered into a contract with Glenn Hay of Harrison-twp. Monday, to furnish 1500 yards of gravel, at 40 cents per yard for several roads in Madison and Harrison-twps.

Condition of Sarah Kidney Is Not Good

The condition of Miss Sarah Kidney, 70, invalid sister the late John Kidney, 75, is reported not as good as it should be. Miss Kidney Sunday was taken to the home of a neighbor, Phil Yinger, who lives east of the Kidney home in Monroe-twp.

Miss Kidney was examined Monday and authorities stated that her left arm, which was broken when she was beaten and tied on the night of the murder of her brother, has become swollen and has turned blue. She is very weak and is still suffering from abrasions on the back of her head where she was struck by her alleged negro assailants.

ATTEMPTED FIRE

Another angle in the robbery by the negroes was disclosed Tuesday when it was learned the robbers placed a heavy blanket over the fireplace in the Kidney home thinking that it might catch fire and destroy the entire scene of their depredations.

The fire in the grate in the Kidney home was low at 3 a. m. but for this reason alone the blanket did not catch fire as the negroes expected.

The blanket was found hanging in front of the grate by neighbors when the aged people were found.

MAN SAVES 11 PERSONS

Three Perish in Bus Crash; Man Breaks Window Drags 11 To Safety.

HIAWATHA, Kan., Dec. 22.—Three persons perished and eleven others were heroically rescued from certain death in a blazing inferno caused by the head-on collision of a truck and interstate bus a mile and a half east of here today.

The hero of the rescue was H. R. Beckman, 26, of North Kansas City, Mo., a passenger on the bus. Recovering from the impact of the crash, Beckman fought his way to the rear of the bus as the flames from the truck's exploding gasoline tank enveloped the vehicle, kicked out a rear window and helped all but one passenger, who burned to death, to safety before crawling through the window himself.

WHITE CHRISTMAS IS HINTED TODAY

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 22.—With winter officially coming to Ohio at 2:30 p. m. today, Weather Observer William H. Alexander foresaw a possibility that the summer-like rain, thunder and lightning of last night and this morning may be replaced by cold and snow on Christmas day.

It was the first time Alexander has been able to give a hint of a white Christmas.

Rain today and tomorrow he predicted, may change to snow Friday and Saturday as the temperature falls.

CANTON, O., Dec. 22.—Identified as the bandit quintet which yesterday staged a daring holdup of the Grove City bank and escaped with a loot of between $3,000 and $4,000, five gunmen today were examined by witnesses for possible connection with other recent crimes in the state.

Caught in the act of dividing the money taken in the bank robbery at their hideout here, the five bandits were arrested without resistance by a squad of policemen headed by Police Chief Earl W. Hexamer.

In addition to the Grove City bank stickup, the five today were suspected in a series of robberies in Columbus and other parts of the state, including the Gloucester post office robbery, the Richmond Union-co bank robbery, the Lou & Cal restaurant robbery at Canton, and the Hessebauer & Sons jewelry store holdup at Columbus. Police said they recovered $2,800 of the Grove City bank loot.

JUDGE ADKINS REFUSES NEW DAMAGE TRIAL

Overrules Motion For New Trial in Courtwright Against Brewer Suit Here.

Common Pleas Judge Joseph W. Adkins overruled a motion for a new trial, Monday, in the case of Bessie Courtwright of the Scioto Trail, north of this city, against Walter O. Brewer, Chillicothe contractor.

The plaintiff took exceptions to the court's move.

Mrs. Courtwright, represented by Tom A. Renick, claimed $10,000 damages as the result of an automobile collision near the Courtwright home in which the plaintiff suffered injuries. A jury in the court recently ruled that the defendant should not pay any damages to which finding the plaintiff sought a new trial citing several charges.

SUIT PENDING

6 TOWNS ARE UNDER WATER IN TENNESSEE

Two Rivers Cause Enormous Loss to Property; Refugees Are In Need

RED CROSS CALLED

Flood Worst Since 1927 When Rivers Broke

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 22.—Swollen by heavy rains, flood waters raged over northern Mississippi today, driving hundreds from their homes and causing enormous damage to crops and property.

Bursting the banks of the Mississippi and Tallahatchee rivers, the waters swept the streets of six towns, deluged cotton fields and rendered highways impassable.

From refugees who have been forced to flee to higher grounds, came an appeal to the Red Cross to rush aid, abandoning their homes, the refugees established crude camps for shelter until help arrives.

Unless the steady downpours of the last two weeks cease, additional towns and wider areas are faced with the flood menace. Aviators, who were dispatched from Memphis to survey the deluged area, returned with accounts of widespread destruction. All of northern Mississippi, they said was under water.

All the right bottom land of the Delta is flooded and houses, seen from the air, look like tiny dots, surrounded by a swirling sheet of muddy water, the flyers reported.

The towns visited by the flood are Sumner, Webb, Charleston, Crowder, Swanlake and Glendora. The rising Tallahatchee pierced a levee and its waters were rushing through two huge gaps.

At Sumner and Glendora the flood was the worst since 1927 when the entire lower Mississippi valley was swept by a huge deluge.

The flood has brought heavy damage to cotton, still standing in the fields, and hundreds of head of livestock have been imperiled, facing death unless shelter and food are given them within a few hours.

IOWA MAN HELD BY GANG, FREED

BURLINGTON, Ia., Dec. 22.—Fred G. Webster and his wife, who refused to confirm the report, still refused today to divulge details of Webster's kidnapping and the payment of an unnamed amount of ransom.

Webster admitted, however, that he had been kidnapped Friday, held 30 hours and finally released near St. Charles, Ill., while he was a prisoner, he said, he was chained to a bed and kept blindfolded.

WILLARD, O., Dec. 22.—William Ramsey, 52, alleged to have shot his wife and 15-year-old daughter, Geraldine, remained silent in jail here today while the wounded members of his family hovered between life and death in a hospital here.

Sending his daughter upstairs he attempted to persuade his wife to allow him to live at home, when she refused he produced a .38 caliber revolver and shot her near the heart, police said. Hearing the shot, the daughter ran down stairs and the pistol shot once again, inflicting a wound near her left shoulder, it was charged.

Ramsey then rushed from the house before neighbors attracted by the gun shots arrived and returned to his temporary home at the ice plant where he was arrested.

Marion McLean, Cincinnati Curly-Headed Child, Found Slain in Tenement

ONE MAN IS HELD

Found In Basement of House By Man Today

(BULLETIN)

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 22.—Charles Bischoff, who discovered the murdered body of little six-year-old Marion McLean in the basement of his humble tenement house today was held by police authorities here this afternoon on suspicion in connection with the case.

Police declined to reveal whether they had any definite clues for a solution of the crime.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 22.

Santa Claus turned out to be a savage fiend for pretty blonde-haired six-year-old Marion McLean.

LURED BY MAN

Victim of a savage "foreign-looking" degenerate who lured her away when she went outdoors to play, singing happily at the thought of approaching Christmas, the body of the child was found today cruelly assaulted in the basement of a humble tenement home here.

Less than a week ago—last Thursday, to be exact—the little blonde-haired child had snuggled close to her mother, Mrs. Mildred McLean, and whispered of the things she would like Santa to bring her.

But Santa will not find Marion at home when he slides down the chimney of the modest McLean home. Marion is at the morgue.

Blood-smeared on her chubby cheeks, hair tousled, her little blue outfit torn and tattered, Marion was found today after one of the greatest hunts in the history of Cincinnati, sprawled in the basement of a house occupied by Chris Stocker, a drug clerk, and owned by Charles Bischoff.

DEAD 12 HOURS

The child had not been dead more than 12 hours, examination revealed. Police said she had been assaulted elsewhere and her body secreted in the barren basement.

Discovery of the child was made by Bischoff when he went into the cellar this morning for kindling. Horrified at the pitiful sight, Bischoff summoned firemen who were conducting a fine-comb search of the neighborhood for the child.

Marion's abductor, declared by police to be a fiendish moron and variously described by the one person, except Marion, who had seen him, as both "tall and thin" and "stout and of middle-height," immediately became the object of a widespread search.

Several suspects were rounded up within a short time after the finding of Marion's body, but none of them admitted any connection or even knowledge of the gruesome crime.

WAVE STRIKES SHIP, 1 DEAD

WOMAN, NAME UNKNOWN, Killed Aboard Tuscania in Atlantic Storm, Disclose.

GLASGOW, Dec. 22.—One woman was killed and 35 other passengers were injured, some seriously, when a giant wave struck the liner Tuscania in mid-Atlantic, it was revealed today when the ship docked here.

The ship was struck Wednesday at the height of a fierce storm during which she heeled over, waves sweeping down her alleyways and rushing into staterooms, the third class dining room, a lounge, saloon, and into other public works.

Passengers and members of the crew were swept off their feet and hurled against furniture and the walls. In addition to those hurt bodily, hundreds were terrified from the shock. Many passengers believed the ship was going to sink.

At one time water was 18 inches deep in the alleyways.

The storm's victim was an elderly woman who died of injuries after receiving first aid. Stewards and stewardesses were pressed into service to treat the injured.

Names of the victims were not made public. It was announced that one of the passenger who died was left at Belfast, where the ship stopped enroute. The Tuscania left New York Dec. 12.

A house full of company necessitates a house full of food, especially if you don't want to be bothered with shopping during the days following Christmas. So Dorothy and I made the rounds of the groceries, this morning, and filled and emptied the car several times over. The Serv-U-Well markets have had their specials on the week, December 18th to December 25th. We bought some of their select oysters at 65 cents a quart, and a two pound package of soda crackers for 21 cents. And we got a supply of brussels sprouts and mushrooms. They have some fine specials in Del Monte goods. I bought a number two size of Royal Ann cherries for 25 cents, and a pound of molasses Krunchies for 25 cents. And of course, I got a 24 1-2 pound bag of Gold Medal flour for 72 cents.

Our family likes Eight O'Clock Coffee and we purchased two pounds for 35 cents at A. & P. Also we purchased four pounds of fruit cakes

lard for 25 cents; two cans of peaches, 29 cents; a jar of raspberry preserves and one of strawberry, the two for 33 cents; a quart can of tomatoes for ten cents; and four cans of corn for a quarter. They also have the fancy California carrots which are so delicious, beside fresh tomatoes, radishes and cucumbers, and oranges. They have the California naval oranges for 33 cents a dozen. In the meat department they are carrying a complete fancy line of poultry. I have ordered a twenty-pound turkey here for the Christmas dinner. I bought, too, several small smoked hams at 15 cents a pound.

Funk's I. G. A. has some fine specials. Among them are vanilla, two 25 cent bottles for 26 cents; butter, I. G. A. creamery, 28 cents; Fine Cup quality tea at 33 cents per pound; three twelve ounce bottles of Ginger Ale for 29 cents; sugar, ten pounds for 45 cents; Cut Mix candy two pounds for 25 cents; and I. G. A. Fluffy cake flour, 19 cents. I bought, too, two dozen tangerines at 18 cents a dozen, some genuine Jersey sweet potatoes and a dozen boxes of the Andy Gump Sunshine animal crackers for 55 cents. That is to follow the suggestion: "Trim your tree with Sunshine."

In the Kroger meat department, I ordered a goose and a duck for holiday dinners. Here they have some delicious-looking mince meat and all sorts of Kraft cheeses. I bought some cream cheese and some pimento. They tell me they will have fish specials all week, too. Then, I saw Kroger's fresh string beans, two pounds for fifteen cents, their cauliflower, broccoli, peppers, coconuts, spinach, celery cabbages—better known as Chinese lettuce—and a pineapple. They have hickory nuts as well as quantities of every other kind of nut. Kroger's have canned pineapple and peaches with heavy syrup at 19 cents a can. Nor could I resist getting the youngsters some of that ribbon candy at 15 cents a pound, and some big peppermint sticks at three for ten cents. And I found marshmallows at only 17 cents a pound.

At the United States store I noticed that for 39 cents one can buy both an aeroplane and a big box of Chippo. I did. I listed among my purchases here, two pounds of honey, one at fifteen cents and one at twenty; several grapefruits at five cents each; one dozen lemons for 35 cents; four pounds of cranberries at 12 1-2 cents a pound, and popcorn at 6 1-4 cents a pound; some black walnuts; two bottles of King Taste French dressing for 29 cents; catsup, 16 ounces for 19 cents; dried prunes at 10 cents a pound, and two dozen eggs. In their meat department, I bought three pounds of pork sausage for 23 cents and some pickled pig's feet.

When we arrived home this evening, we were mightily tired but immensely happy. There is no satisfaction like that of knowing that the larder is full.

Make this a Practical Christmas

This really is no year for well-meant but useless Christmas gifts. Too many parties are almost empty—too many modest tables lack the delicacies of former years. Unromantic though it seems, we believe that in many cases food will make the most acceptable sort of gift. Staples for the very needy—like surprising how much a dollar will buy! And for those like ourselves, more fortunate, there's no one who doesn't feel festive about fruit cakes, candies, dates, cigarettes, nuts, olives and such!

MEETING FALLING PRICES EXPLAINED

When prices fall, a dollar becomes very valuable. Long time investments become burdensome. The lower prices go, the more farm products must be sold to get a dollar to pay off an obligation.

In October, 1929, it required 102 bushels of corn, or 238 dozens of eggs or 222 pounds of butterfat or 5 1-6 (200 pound) hogs to pay off $100 of debt or expense.

In October, 1931, it required 322 bushels of corn, or 417 dozens of eggs, or 333 pounds of butterfat or 10 (200 pound) hogs to pay off $100 of debt or expense.

Under conditions recited above, it is quite evident that it requires much more farm produce to demand a dollar. Farmers cannot afford to pay high priced feed stuffs, make long time investments or buy machinery or commodities which involve much labor. It takes large quantities of farm products when translated into any article involving labor.

When prices fall, items which farmers buy remain relatively high in relation to the prices of his farm products. From October, 1929, to October, 1931, items which farmers buy decreased 19 per cent while farm prices declined 51 per cent during the same period.

The greater utilization of home grown feeding stuffs supplemented properly by tankage, or other protein carriers, the re-conditioning and repair of farm implements and the careful culling of unprofitable hens, cows and sows, would seem advisable and profitable in view of present conditions.

Hosket Lost To Ohio State Squad

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 22.—When "Old Man" examinations completed his sojourn at Ohio State university, the Buckeye basketball aspirant for the present season was somewhat jolted. Wilmer C. "Bill" Hosket, rangy sophomore center, of Dayton today had tucked away his uniform after being declared ineligible for varsity sports until the close of the winter quarter.

With that the high hopes of the Buckeyes of making an impressive showing in the approaching western conference race assumed a gloomy aspect. Coach Harold Olsen had centered his attack around the former Stivers athlete who was chiefly responsible for Ohio's victories over Ohio university and Missouri.

Coming on the eve of the Yale battle, Olsen was confronted with the necessity of an immediate change. Fred "Blackie" Courad, versity team here New Years day. The annual Rose Bowl game will be the 17th between teams representing the far west and teams from the east, middle west and south. Since 1901 when Michigan defeated Stanford in the first tournament of Roses games, the west has won six clashes and the east five, with three games tied.

Southern California has won its first two starts against invading teams, a distinction that fell to no other coast team.

Rose tourney officials were planning to invite Prof. Albert Einstein, the noted German scientist and Mrs. Einstein, to witness the January 1 classic. The Einsteins were due to arrive from Berlin December 27.

Two Farmers Confess Assisting In Kidnaping

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 22.—Intimating that New York gangsters played leading roles in the ambitious conspiracy, two poverty-ridden tenant farmers early today full confessed, police claimed, to participating in the sensational kidnaping last week of Mrs. Nell Quinlan Donnelly, wealthy "apron queen."

After an all-night grilling the two men—William Lacy Browning and Paul Scheidt—delivered to Chief of Police Seigfried written statements, revealing in detail their knowledge of and part in the plot that failed when the wealthy house garment manufacturer and her negro chauffeur were released unharmed.

The arrest and confessions of the two farmers prompted police to renew their intensive hunt for the remainder of the kidnaping gang. On the basis of the two prisoners' oral information, Chief Seigfried dispatched several squad cars early today to round up five additional members of the gang. The chief said two new arrests are expected momentarily.

NEW YORK ANGLE
The New York angle of the conspiracy was disclosed in the confession of Browning, 42-year-old father of three children, who is a member of the school board of Holliday, Kan., where he lives. Browning said a steam-shovel operator named Marshall Dewey had told him that two New York gangsters were on their way to Kansas City to aid in effecting the kidnaping and to negotiate for the ransom.

Both Browning and Scheidt, owner of the shack near Bonner Springs where Mrs. Donnelly and her driver were held captive, implicated Dewey as one of the ring-leaders in the abduction plot.

Both said that they had driven them to take a hand in the kidnaping, although neither participated in the actual seizure of the millionaire and the chauffeur. The promise of monetary rewards they confessed, was the allurement which induced them to join the conspiracy.

In his confession Browning said he first became acquainted with Dewey about two years ago and that the steam-shovel operator had approached him about two months ago with a proposition for making "some easy money." Dewey described the kidnap plot to Browning, Paul Donnelly, war-veteran husband of the manufacturer, was to be the victim originally and the ransom was at first set at $50,000, instead of $75,000 the tribute subsequently demanded.

Browning said his task was to obtain a house in which to hide Donnelly for two days and that he, Browning, was to receive one-half of one-fifth of the ransom in return for his services.

Browning immediately thought of Scheidt's house, which is in a secluded spot, as the ideal place for the kidnapers and their captive. He said he negotiated with Scheidt and that later Dewey interviewed the owner of the shack.

Scheidt agreed to let the kidnapers use his home for $1,000 to be paid upon collection of the ransom money.

When Browning expressed fear that the plot might fail and that all of the perpetrators might be captured and face the death penalty exacted by Missouri law for kidnaping, "Dewey assured him" with the information that the two New York gangsters would see to it that everything went smoothly.

Browning said Dewey told him the gangsters were experienced in such matters.

CHICAGO IS ACTIVE SEEKING RING FETES

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Three world's boxing championships may be decided in Chicago during 1932, if officials of the Chicago stadium succeed in their cherished projects.

Nate Lewis, stadium matchmaker, was on his way east today to try to land the Schmeling-Walker fight for the heavyweight title. The local arena also is after the Brouillard-Field fight for the welterweight crown, and the Cannonieri-Battalino bout in the lightweight class.

Besides these championship contests, two other heavyweight fights will be in the offering. The promoters sought to match Dempsey and Carnera here and then to pit the winner of that battle against the victor in the Schmeling-Walker bout.

HEIRESS IS IN

J. Penfield, Columbus chain store magnate.

He was here when informed his daughter had been found suffering from a strange collapse, attended by complete aphasia regarding events since she disappeared from Philadelphia, Thursday.

Overstudy was believed both by the father and police to have induced Miss Penfield's odd vanishing. Penfield declared emphatically no love affair was involved.

Miss Penfield said she remembered nothing after leaving a department store in Philadelphia Thursday, where she said good-bye to a classmate. She ostensibly left to entrain for home.

She arrived here Friday, registering at a hotel as "B. Scott, Chicago."

It was not till yesterday that Dr. Arthur Brown, called when a maid found her ill, recognized the girl, who is a student at the fashionable Mary Lyons finishing school, Swarthmore, Pa.

CULBERTSON GAINS
NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Many of the hands bid and played in the Lenz-Culbertson marathon bridge tournament are destined to be immortalized in song and story, but few of those which went into the records at last night's session are due for any such glorified future.

Culbertson, partnered last night by Baron Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, rolled up an additional lead of 3,205 points for a total margin of 11,120.

Although he has been mentioned repeatedly as a candidate for president or vice president, the governor in his statement to be made early in 1932 will not declare himself a candidate for either position, friends indicated.

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

Published by STEVENSON'S

VOL. 3. NO. 51. Tuesday, December 22, 1931

H. G. received a nice balling out" the other day. It was "this away." Last week we told you about a young lady who received a lovely clothes hamper from our store. And now this young lady is married and has said that she "could not keep house without her hamper." We also told you that her mother had one, also. But we failed to mention the fact that another daughter of this mother has one. Well, we're real sorry, folks, but we had forgotten that we sold three of these hampers last year to this one family.

This incident is mentioned to show you that these articles really do prove practical in use. They are so nice looking that they may be left right out in the open. No need to stick them back in a closet. Enameled in Orchid, Green, or Old Rose, with a very neat design woven into the hamper, they are really gifts worth giving, and receiving, too.

A woman's glove, in tan suede with four pearl buttons on the back and for the right hand, was found on our floor. Owner may have same by calling at our store.

We've ordered mattresses of all sizes in the past 15 years, but we took an order last Saturday for the smallest one ever ordered by this store. It was only eight inches in length and the width was full size. Our customer is increasing the length of his bed, he being one of those "Long Johns." He believes in sleeping comfort. How about you? Are your beds really beds, or just a place to lay down upon? Drop in and let us help you with your bedding problems.

For those that want a large overstuffed chair in a beautiful tapestry covering on a well-made frame, we'd suggest our special at $16.85. Dad would like one of them for his Christmas.

Yes, and we still have one juvenile breakfast set, made by ville stenographer was told by her employer that she should go home and relax. "But," she said, "I can't. We have antique furniture." Was this your home? Well, she would have no trouble in relaxing if she had that mohair suite that is on our floor for only $99.50. How about it, Dad, wouldn't it make a pretty nice present to the family?

No, dear sir, it's not too late for you to order out that Estate Heatrola for installation before Christmas. Nor is it too late to take advantage of our exceptionally large trade-in proposition and that extra discount for cash that we've been offering to buyers. Have the home warmed by a Heatrola on Christmas morning and you and yours will enjoy "June warmth" for years to come.

Dog-gone-it, and a couple of cow-horn-its, after writing a lot of copy about those wonderful play kitchen cabinets, that have proven so popular this Christmas Season, we have had to re-write it. And now, sorry to say, we can't sell another cabinet. We have just received word from the factory that they are oversold. One young lady will be sadly disappointed for Santa had planned to take one to her home. And it is a great disappointment to us not to be able to satisfy the desires of this little girl.

But it's a different story about the regular Sellers Kitchen Cabinets—the kind that Mother would want—we can supply them. In fact, we have several nice numbers, in various colors, that would make work quite a bit easier for her. Take a tip, Dad, you've been wondering what on earth to give your better half this year—give HER a Sellers and save her many extra steps daily for many years to come.

Yes, and we still have one juvenile breakfast set, made by Sellers, finished just like the large ones, that we can sell. It's not a toy affair, but a really practical play set. And if Dad'll purchase a certain regular size cabinet for Mother, we'll give one to little Sister with our compliments. Remember—only one play breakfast set on hand and its now too late to get more.

(Evidently, he was "moon-struck" in love, or both.)

He "What a night, what a moon, what a girl—what a combination."

She: "Heavens, is that showing, too?"

We're closing out a few articles of play furniture at prices that make the parents of small children sit up and take notice. For instance, we've a drop-side doll bassinet that is 24 inches long and on rubber-tired wheels, for only $1.49. That's just one item—there are many others, but drop in and see the values.

A certain young lady, after looking around, informed us that our $1.35 folding tables were the nicest, for the money, that she had found. It's not always the cheapest that is the best buy, but the article that represents the best value. Oh, yes, we've many other priced tables, including those that stand on an easel and make a screen when not in use as a table. And they have hand-painted tops that are washable. And don't forget a bridge-set—a table and four wood chairs. Card players can always use a good table and extra chairs. An ideal Christmas gift.

Let's run out of space, we'd like to say to you and yours—WE WISH YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

What's Mother going to do with that long sword fern? Why not give her one of those nifty metal fern racks that we are showing? They're inexpensive
